Meeting called to order by Dennis Coates – 1:13 PM.

Approval of Minutes

General Items:

- The executive committee discussed membership numbers and ways that we can increase them.
- Brad discussed the IASE-NAASE sessions which are both to be held during the WEA conference in Vancouver 2009. While not set in stone, it seemed that additional session on Sunday June 28th or Monday June 29th would be added for IASE. These sessions could be held at either Simon Fraser (in Vancouver) or with the WEA. These details are yet to be worked out. This is a great chance to go to two conferences on one trip.
- John presented a financial report on NAASE. The next step for the organization is to get a tax exempt status and is currently underway. It was mentioned that more spaces are needed for telephone numbers on the NAASE website for PayPal. Attached is the financial report.
- Stacey presented the election results and they were certified by the Executive Committee. The executive committee results are:
 - President-elect: Brad Humphreys
 - Vice President (2010): David Berri
 - Vice President (2010): Tony Krautmann
 - Vice President (2009): Bernd Frick
 - Vice President (2009): Peter von Allmen

Lawrence H. Hadley Service Award

Lawrence H. Hadley

Larry was a distinguished economist and long time faculty member at the University of Dayton who helped launch the burgeoning field of Sports Economics. Together with Elizabeth Gustafson, he organized one of the first sessions on sports economics at the Western Economics Association meetings in 1995. Based on the popularity of these sessions, together with the growing worldwide interest in the discipline, the WEA currently allocates about ten sessions annually to sports economics. One result of Larry's efforts to initiate and nurture these annual sessions was the formation of the North American Association of Sports Economists (NAASE) in 2007. Beyond organizing conference activities, Larry edited (along with John Fizel and Elizabeth Gustafson) two widely cited and popular volumes of collected papers which surveyed a number of important research topics in the field. Finally, Larry was a member of numerous editorial boards and scholarly associations, including the Journal of Sports Economics and the International Association of Sports Economists. Larry passed away on June 9, 2007.

The Lawrence H. Hadley Distinguished Service Award

In recognition of Larry's distinguished career in Economics, and especially his many valuable service contributions to the field of Sports Economics, the North American Association of Sports Economists (the "Association") has created an award in his honor to a deserving recipient who has distinguished herself or himself through service to the Association and the field of sports economics. While individuals can contribute to sports economics in many ways, this award is intended to honor those whose contributions are deemed unusual and outstanding in scope and duration.

Procedures

1. A nominating procedure:
 - a. The Executive Committee will convene a committee ("Nominating Committee") of three members to nominate a recipient for the award.
 - b. The award shall be given every four years to coincide with the World Cup tournament (beginning in 2010).
 - c. The Nominating Committee will make a recommendation to the Executive Committee by March 30th in the year of the award.
 - d. The Executive Committee will vote on the candidate and decide on a single recipient by May 30th of the year of the award.
 - e. The recipient of the award shall be formally recognized by the Executive Committee at the General Membership meeting of the Association at the subsequent WEA conference of the year of the award.
2. The nomination criteria:
 - a. The general criterion must be that the candidate is widely recognized as having made significant service contributions to the field of sports economics over an extended period.
 - b. While not an exhaustive list, one would expect a worthy candidate to have:

-helped organize, administer, and have created tangible results in terms of the management of the Association;

-to have contributed to the promotion and scholarship of the field;

-to have assisted colleagues with their own research program in sports economics;

-and, to have been an active participant in the on-going activities of the Association.

3. The Award

- a. A plaque acknowledging the recipient will be created and presented at the General Membership meeting.
- b. An announcement in the Journal of Sports Economics which will include a short biographical essay outlining the contributions of the recipient, along with the recipient's picture. Such a biography will be constructed by the Nominating Committee.
